To whom it may concern

We, the undersigned, comprise a group of elephant researchers working together to study elephants and promote their conservation and welfare. Our combined experience represents almost 300 person-years of work with free-ranging, wild African elephants. We are the acknowledged leading experts in the field.

It is our considered opinion that elephants should not be used in circuses. Elephants in the wild roam over large areas and move considerable distances each day. They are intelligent, highly social animals with a complex system of communication. An elephant family is led by the oldest female – the matriarch – and is bonded by kinship, affiliation, experience, great loyalty and affection. No captive situation can provide elephants with the space they need for movement or with the kind of social stimulation and complexity that they would experience in the wild.

Elephants in circuses are bought and sold, separated from companions, confined, chained and forced to stand for hours and frequently moved about in small compartments on trains or trucks. They are required to perform behaviors never seen in nature. In short they are treated as commodities, as objects to provide entertainment for humans. The circus experience has nothing to do with the reality of elephant life and behaviour.

In order to keep elephant behavior under tight control in the close proximity, "hands-on" conditions of circuses, it is necessary for a handler to establish and maintain supremacy. Domination of such a large animal must unavoidably involve an element of cruelty, often including the liberal use of an ankus – a bull-hook euphemistically termed "guide" by those in the business, a whip or an electric prod. Elephants have extraordinary memories and it has been demonstrated that they never forget rough treatment by human handlers. Consequently, they can pose an unpredictable and abiding danger to the public, to their handlers, and thus to themselves.

We believe that such intelligent, socially complex and long-lived animals should be treated with respect and empathy. An elephant’s place is in the wild with its relatives and companions. The totally unnatural existence of captive elephants in a circus, which includes significant physical and emotional suffering, is a travesty. To allow this practice to continue is unjustified and unethical.

The Amboseli Elephant Research Project

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>The Amboseli Elephant Research Project</th>
<th>Elephant Experience</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Cynthia Moss, Director</td>
<td>41 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Harvey Croze, Senior Consultant</td>
<td>41 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Joyce Poole</td>
<td>33 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prof. Phyllis C. Lee</td>
<td>26 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. W. Keith Lindsay</td>
<td>32 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Soila Sayialel, Project Manager</td>
<td>22 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Norah Njiraini</td>
<td>23 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Katito Sayialel</td>
<td>16 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Winnie Kiiru</td>
<td>16 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Petter Granli</td>
<td>8 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Karen McComb</td>
<td>15 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Sandy Andelman</td>
<td>6 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Elizabeth Archie</td>
<td>10 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Lucy Bates</td>
<td>3 years</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total</td>
<td>292 years</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

E-mail: cmoss@elephanttrust.org
         jpoole@elephantvoices.org
Website: www.elephanttrust.org